ALL IN GOOD HEALTH

Twenty Nine Days Of Adventure In Canada Finally Ended.

Mattice, Ont., Jan. 12.—A long night's sleep and a hearty breakfast restored the returned American balloonists to normal condition today and all declared that they were ready to begin the last lap of their journey home. There was still ill feeling between Lieutenants Stephen Farrell and Walter Hinton over the latter's letter that Farrell had weakened and wanted to commit suicide so that the others might eat the flesh of his body learned what Hinton had said in his

TALE OF ADVENTURE TOLD BY AERONAUTS

Few tales of adventure exceed the experiences of the three American naval balloonists who have just arrived back in civilization from the northern wilderness. Here are some of them:

Howling wolves menaced them when they made a fire and attempted to snatch a few hours

They had no weapons and were tantalized by tame partridges and a moose that ventured near them. They tried to kill the birds by flinging missiles at them.

They packed dried grass inside their underwear to keep them warm. They had only one box matches and were so careful that they used only two of them in two

They wrong the neck of their carrier pigeons and broiled them, eating bones and all. Kloor hit a venturesome "timber tack" snowbird with a stick but failed to retrieve it before it ing post at Moose Factory they were in good condition. The men planned to leave Mattice this afternoon, reaching New York tomorrow night or Friday morning. The plans of the people of this part of Ontario to receive the American flyers were marred somewhat by the hostility existing between Farrell and felt that Hinton had slurred him in his letter. Whether Farrell will demand an official investigation by the navy department is not yet known.

The men all agreed that they had just passed through the supreme adventure of their lives.

"Believe me a lot has happened in the past few weeks," said Lieut. Kloor. with a grin on his boyish face.
"I can smile at it all now that we dering about in the snow up in the jail.

The way in which the gray Bedford stone is beginning to show up on the Detroit Street side of the court house gives promise that Mr. Frazer's statement that he will have the walls completed by the middle of the summer will not be far amiss. The effect that is made by the Bedford stone is very handsome and striking one and when completed the structure will be one in which all Greene Countians can take pride. The Xenia basket ball team which went to Springfield last night returned home this morning and all of them wore some what forlorn expression. They were outclassed in the game and the Springfield boys played all around them. The Springfield boys scored so fast and so often that the score keeper exhausted his supply of chalk, in keeping tab and when he had finished the score read something like 49 to 5. But the Xenia boys were given the best treatment and have no "kick" coming as a result of their

..... January 12, 1729

One of the greatest men in the his tory of political literature was Edmund Burke, Statesman and writer. Comparatively little is known of his early life. He was born in Dublin, in 1729, supposedly on the 12th of January. His father was a Protestant and his mother a Catholic The boy himself brought up as a Protestant was sent to a quaker school.

Burke seems to have finished his college course with no very great stock of classified knowledge. The Roman and Grek orators were his favorites and he knew them thoroughly. His early political life, he tells us was very much of a struggle.

Gradualy he began to acquire both political and literary fame. He was at one time known as "single speech" Burke because of one short speech in the House of Commons. He rose highest in political fame because of his speeches in favor of American Independence. The best spirit of England was in favor of Colonial freedom and Burke was one of the leaders of that spirit

At first he gained some unpopular-ity by his stand but after Cornwallis' surrender at Yorktown, the whole nation was behind him. Every school

CASH REGISTER IS

B. M. Shipley, of Dayton, head of the inventions department of the National Cash Register, and inventor of the new cash register, known as "Class 2000" which was introduced for the first time at the session of the 1920 Hundred Percent Club at that factory Tuesday, is a brother-in-law of Mrs.

D. L. Croy of this city.

Mr. Shipley has spent years of time and effort perfecting the register, which according to statements, attributed to First Vice-President J. H. Barringer, is expected to revolution-ize the cash register company, and open to salesmen fields that were hitherto closed to them. Mr. Shipley is also known in this city, having visited Mr. and Mrs. Croy here many time.

Fifteen years experimental and research work is represented in the "Class 2000" machine, now ready to be put on the market. The cost of producing the one machine has been $500,000, it is said A pagent displayed at the meeting Tuesday showing the evolution of the cash register from its early and crude beginning to the new style register "Class 2000" which was revealed for the first time from a large box labelled" not to be opened until 1921." THE NEW GOVERNOR OF OHIO PLEASES THE TEMPER-ANCE PEOPLE IN HIS INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

The whirleygig of political rotation, on Monday, relegated Governor James M. Cox to private life, and elevated Harry S. Davis, of Cleveland, to be Governor of Ohio.

Before last fall's election there was a systematic effort made on the part of quite a strong element of temperance republicans to defeat Mr. Davis on the ground that as a Mayor of Cleveland he had catered to the liquor element, and feared he would do likewise as Governor, if elected.

Doubtless he lost many votes on this account, but still was elected by a tremendous majority, the wind then having swirled completely anti-democratic the nation over.

Now then, as the new Governor of Ohio, the temperance people of the state are vitally interested to know what is going to be his position on this vital question of the enforcement of the law against the liquor interests, and we are glad to say that in his inaugural address on Monday he gave the most positive assurance of determination for such enforcement. This is very gratifying.

In fact, Governor Davis goes at greater length to give his views on this subject than on any other, and even recommends further legislation to still better enforce prohibition. We can do no better than to call special attention to what he says on this subject, as follows:

"There now is no longer a wet-and-dry problem, for the citizens have spoken. They have disposed definitely of that question. It now is the duty of all public officials strictly to carry out the public mandate by an iron-handed policy in the enforcement of all laws.

"A year ago the Eighty-third General Assembly enacted House Bill No. 620, commonly called the Crabbe act, designed to prohibit the liquor traffic and to provide for the administration and enforcement of such prohibition. This measure was submitted to a referendum of the voters last November, was approved by the voters and is now the law.

"This measure leaves the matter of enforcement entirely to officials in the various communities. I am forced to the conclusion that, because of this localization of enforcement, the most New York state and the Canadian effective results are not to be obtained under the law as it now stands. It is certain to lead to a kind of enforcement that will vary in degree and effectiveness in different localities.

"With the will of the public with reference to the traffic expressed at the polls, the state government now is looked to for its abolishment. Every possibility of laxity in the liquor law enforcement, whether state-wide or locally, must be eliminated.

"The accomplishment of this result lies in uniformly strict application of the Crabbe act in every section. Such uniformity of policy and practice, I believe, can be assured only by placing the task of enforcement directly into the hands of state authori- and everything was covered with ties, through the formation of a state prohibition enforcement staff. Such a working force, co-operating with local and Federal authorities in details, at once will assure a systematic carrying out of the provisions of the Crabbe act the length and breadth of the state and give to the executive department of the government, bearing the responsibility of enforcement, a direct and their eyes is the real hero. It was a definite means with which to discharge it.

"I, therefore, urgently recommend that legislation be enacted whirled into town along the Missinabi providing for the establishment, as a part of the administrative machinery of the state government, of a prohibition enforcement bureau, coupled with a staff charged with the duty of carrying out the provisions of the Crabbe act."

HELPING THE CHILD.

In his address before the Child Conservation League at Marion, Mr. Harding again made it clear that he means to do all that a President can to make this country a good place for a child to grow up in. In his fine, earnest words at Haverford, Mr. Hoover at the same hour was showing us how intimately interlinked is the child welrare of Europe with our own problem. The future of the world is the future of its children. If we fail to feed their bodies and their souls with the right sort of food, the body politic and the corporate spirit of a nation will suffer.

Mr. Harding has no "new-patent" panaceas to propose. He does not think the earth is presently going to turn to cinders or a shriveled scroll; he does not think the epitaph of humanity is moment Hinton entered Williamson's written and that in a vale of tears the thing for us to do is to don not to talk to the newspapermen. a shroud and bewail our sin. He does not howl like a winter wind of doom and disaster impending. Instead, he reminds us of a few plain, homely truths it is well we should remember. He tells Hinton. us that it is a wholesome thing for children to listen when a mother speaks and learn to live at home in dutifulness and affection, and to be democrats on the playground and in the classes of the public school. He expresses again the ardent hope he entertains that the public welfare department he proposes may have much to do in helping the dreams of an ideal democracy come true. While Mr. Harding is no prophet of gloom and cataclysm, he is right in affirming that it is an age of widespread doubt and mistrust, in which we need more than ever to hold fast to the eternal verities. The influences of the hearthside and the church of which he speaks may, in the eyes of a sham aristocracy, appear to be hopelessly "middle-class;" but such a view merely betrays the flippant foolishness of those who hold it. The salt of the earth is in the ordered, temperate lives of the millions of people who know that it is "altogether wise and best" to be decent, home- has carefully avoided his companions loving, law-abiding and God-fearing.-Exchange

The aggressive, square jawed Farrell showed the least excitement over the adventure. After he had knocked Hinton down with a smashing right to the jaw, and had cooled off he talked with the correspondents.

The only purpose of the flight was to make an experimental hop," said "The flight was duly authorized. We expected to land the following morning and did not take much food. We only had a Quebec Central railway map to guide us over Canada. During the night on December 13, it started to rain and the wind blew a gale. Then it grew very cold. It was Hinton's first balloon flight but he got along all right. Kloor was enthusiastic over the speed we were making and it is no wonder we were going fast for we were travelling in the teeth of a gale. We were in the clouds travelling westward when we finally landed on the shore of James Bay. The sun was shining but it was bitter cold snow and ice. I guess the rest of our adventure is pretty well known by Kloor was the first to arrive. He trail on a dog sled and was greeted with cheers mingled with the yelps of numerous packs of dogs. Hinton came next and Farrell last.

"I feel fine but I want to get at a fire," said Kloor. He went into the railway station and afterwards went to the private car of W. S. Way, superintendent of the Canadian National railway. Hinton also went to the private car immediately after his arrival. Farrell's arrival was delayed because he was travelling with the Indian bringing the mail from Moose Factory and it was a tremendous load. Farrell went to the home of B. P. Williamson, a clerk in the service of the Hudson Bay company.

The correspondents asked Farrely if he offered to commit suicide. "Where did you get that lie?" demanded the flyer. Accosts Hinton. When Farrell learned what Hinton had written in his letter his cheeks

"What about those letters?" asked "I did not write any," countered

You lie." shouted Farrell, losing control of himself.

"Wait a minute lets talk this thing over." said Hinton. "I've had enough of you," said Farrell leaping from his chair and squaring himself for a punch. It was plain Hinton did not want a fight and it was equally plain that his attitude was making Farrell angrier than ever. As the correspondents were leaving some words passed between the men which were not overheard. Farrell jeaped forward, struck out with his right fist and Hinton sprawled helpless over a table. friends gathered at the late home of Charles H. Jenkins, on Saturday morning to pay the last tribute of respect to a friend, and a most highly esteemed citizen of Jamestown. The services were in charge of the Rev. Willis A. Cooper, of the M. E. church, who read several selections of scripture. He took for his text the forty first verse of the nineteenth chapter of St. John and said "that there is a garden in every home, and a grave in every garden; and the time comes to every home when we find this sepulcher in the garden." There was no singing, but Mr. Cooper read several verses from Guest. The casket was covered and surrounded with a profusion of fragrant flowers, the gift of loved ones and friends. HARD TO FIGURE.

I know not why I always think a new year will be fine, and feel it will not put a kink in glowing plans of mine; or why a year seems on the blink when 'tis in its decline. "I've muddled things this year," I say, when I regard the past; "I've let my kopecks fly away like leaves upon the blast, but doubtless after New Year's Day improvement will be vast. The new year brings a change of luck to every human freak; my bank account the old year struck, and made my coffers leak, but now I'll save a silver buck, and maybe two, each week." The new year has a magic touch, or so, methinks, it seems; she is a vampire and as such she brings us hophead dreams, and ere she dies we get in Dutch, with all our burnished schemes. I know I simply can't be wise, my deeds are all mistakes, I travel with the bonehead guys whose high resolves are fakes; how then shall I to wisdom rise because a new year breaks? In folly I've grown old and gray, and in my Moated Grange I count great chances thrown away, and it is passing strange that I exclaim on New Year's Day, "Now things will take

PALMER TO DECIDE.

Washington, Jan. 11.—The state de-partment has decided that the case of Harry Boland, secretary to Eamonn DeValera, who is alleged to have urged a "race vendetta" on the British in this country comes within the jurisdiction of justice, it was announced.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects. Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.

Make a Tone Comparison

before buying a phonograph

Don't choose a phonograph until you have made a tone comparison. Hear The Brunswick and understand the why and wherefore of the Brunswick Method of Reproduction. Satisfy your own ears, your own judgment.

The wonderful tones of The Brunswick are due to the two exclusive advancements pictured here.

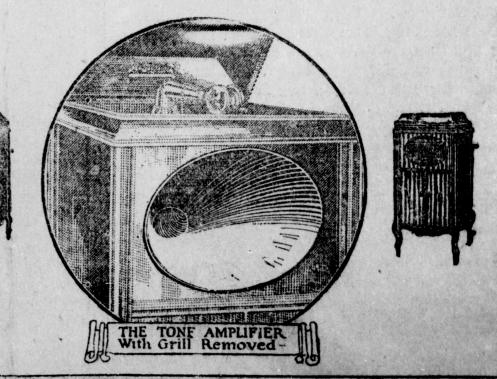

The Ultona is an all-record reproducer that is entirely different. It practically does away with distracting noises on the record, because it is accurately counter-balanced. Another interesting feature is the scientifically shaped

Oval Tone Amplifier-built entirely of resonant wood. It conforms to acoustic laws. It develops tone properly. We will be glad to play The Brunswick for you, and to explain the function of these Brunswick advantages. Ask us to play Brunswick Records for you. They can be played on any phonograph using steel or fibre needles.

Paris, Jan. - In outlining his political program recently Premier Georges Leygues held that in future he hoped to make way in various important commissions for women. He took example of the millions of women in America who it is generally believed in French political circles were scuh a strong factor in bringing about the election of Warren Harding, the Republican candidate. But for the time being Leygues does not say he will suggest that Frenchwomen be given the right to vote in French elections, and here he has the majority of Frenchmen, excepting politicians against him.

One of the most fervent supporters of femlnism in France is Leon Bailby, editor of an influential evening newspaper, L'Intransigeant. M. Bailby, in a leading article, says women will be refused the vote in France because their men friends and relatives are afraid of their "better halves." While he rejoites at the proposed appointment of women to sit on food and hygienic commissions he regrets that no one is bold enough to offer them seats in Parliament or even give them tives. On the commissions, Bailby chance of making their impressions and opinions felt. In Parliament, he says, but a few women could often leagues by simply telling them a few with Mr and Mrs. Stacey. home truths.

"Take for example our laws on alcoholism," says Bailby. "Were wom Dick Talbett in Crator, Ohio. en sitting in Parliament do you supfree, careless way they are today? Less poison would be taken and there be less drunkenness. Take again the housing problem and the high cost of ling. Women, who dur-ing the war showed herself the equal and often the superior of man, has her place all marked in parliamentary commissions appointed to inquire into the food and house shortage. The day women are allowed to vote and take theis rightful place in Parliament there will be a great change in the mentality of our governors, who w'll talk less politics and be more economical, more realistic and closer

HE Stiles Baking Company is now supplying good bread to the people of Xenia. We feel a keen sense of responsibility to our trade, for the quality of our bread. The health and well-being of the people of Xenia is the thing nearest our hearts.

For months past we have been preparing ourselves to put out an even better loaf of bread than has ever been sold in Xenia. We have combined our years of baking experience with that of the country's most notable experts. And we now take pride in introducing our new and best product.

KLEEN MAID BREAD

In the Economical Big Loaf.

The finest of flour is used in KLEEN MAID Bread; and it is mixed according to latest scientific formulas and uniformly baked after time-tried methods that bring out the maximum of nutriton and food value. It is a large size loaf that will prove a revelation in bread enjoyment. KLEEN MAID is baked only in the economical big loaf—which in itself is a more desirable advantage. Big loaves stay fresh for days longer than small loaves. They have less crust and a better flavor. Big loaves are more economical and better in quality.

We present KLEEN MAID Bread to the housewives of Xenia as the best bread you have ever tasted. Try it today—compare it with the bread you think best-we can confidently rely on your good judgment of this meritorious home product.

HYDROPLANE RAISED

A report that the ill-fated hydro-1-12.14 ers of the Mississippi, was the latest poor inner tube and it is about the information relatives here had received Wednesday afternoon regarding a good inner tube even if it costs Carl Fischer, mechanician with a trifle more. George Simpson, test pilot from Day-ton Wright Field, whose plane fell in the river at Tiptonville, Tenn., Sunday.

Parties dragging the river Tuesday came across the wreckage of the plane and it was reported here that the seaplane was brought up from the water Wednesday morning. Whether the bodies of the two aviators were recovered or not, has not been learned, although another report said that a resident of the vicinity of the accident had seen Fischer swim from the wreckage for a great distance but that he had gone down before aid could

Bernard Whalen, pilot, who is conduct- breaks any cold up. ing an investigation of the accident, the plane did not b urn and the theory is advanced that an extra overcoat belonging to Simpson had blown from the seat into the propeller, causing the accident. The plane evidently came down sideways, as if it had alighted upright, it would not have sunk.

The overcoat theory is held to, as on the seaplane, the two propellers are in the rear of the machine which is advanced through the air by a pushing rather than a pulling force, which is the case on most of the ordinary planes. Whalen says that the plane did not fall f rom a great height.

Twenty Nine Days Of Adventure In Canada Finally Ended.

Mattice, Ont., Jan. 12.-A long night's sleep and a hearty breakfast restored the returned American bailoonists to normal condition today and all declared that they were ready to begin the last lap of their journey home. There was still ill feeling between Lieutenants Stephen Farrell and Walter Hinton over the latter's letter that Farrell had weakened and wanted to commit suicide so that the others might eat the flesh of his body as a last resort. TALE OF ADVENTURE TOLD BY AERONAUTS

Few tales of adventure exceed the experiences of the three American naval balloonists who have just arrived back in civilization from the northern wilderness. Here are some of them:

Howling wolves menaced them when they made a fire and attempted to snatch a few hours

They had no weapons and were tantalized by tame partridges and a moose that ventured near them. They tried to kill the birds by finging missiles at them.

The men planned to leave Mattice this afternoon, reaching New York tomorrow night or Friday morning.

The plans of the people of this part flyers were marred somewhat by the hostility existing between Farrell and felt that Hinton had slurred him in his letter. Whether Farrell will demand an official investigation by the navy department is not yet known.

The men all agreed that they had just passed through the supreme adventure of their lives.

EDMUND BURKE

January 12, 1729

One of the greatest men in the history of political literature was Edmund Burke, Statesman and writer. Comparatively little is known of his early life. He was born in Dublin, in 1729, supposedly on the 12th of January. His father was a Protestant and his mother a Catholic The boy himself brought up as a Protestant was sent to a quaker school

Burke seems to have finished his college course with no very great stock of classified knowledge. The Roman and Grek orators were his favorites and he knew them thoroughly. His early political life, he tells us was very much of a struggle.

Gradualy he began to acquire both political and literary fame. He was at one time known as "single speech" no "kick" coming as a result of their Burke because of one short speech in the House of Commons. He rose highest in political fame because of his speeches in favor of American In-dependence. The best spirit of Eng-land was in favor of Colonial freedom and Burke was one of the leaders of that spirit.

At first he gained some unpopularity by his stand but after Cornwallis' surrender at Yorktown, the whole na-tion was behind him. Every school

THE NEW GOVERNOR OF OHIO PLEASES THE TEMPER ANCE PEOPLE IN HIS INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

The whirleygig of political rotation, on Monday, relegated Governor James M. Cox to private life, and elevated Harry S. Davis, of Cleveland, to be Governor of Ohio.

Before last fall's election there was a systematic effort made on the part of quite a strong element of temperance republicans to defeat Mr. Davis on the ground that as a Mayor of Cleveland he had catered to the liquor element, and feared he would do likewise as Governor, if elected.

Doubtless he lost many votes on this account, but still was elected by a tremendous majority, the wind then having swirled completely anti-democratic the nation over.

Now then, as the new Governor of Ohio, the temperance people of the state are vitally interested to know what is going to be his position on this vital question of the enforcement of the law against the liquor interests, and we are glad to say that in his inaugural address on Monday he gave the most positive assurance of determination for such enforcement. This is very

In fact, Governor Davis goes at greater length to give his views on this subject than on any other, and even recommends further legislation to still better enforce prohibition. We can do no better than to call special attention to what he says on this subject, as follows:

"There now is no longer a wet-and-dry problem, for the citizens have spoken. They have disposed definitely of that question. It now is the duty of all public officials strictly to carry out the public mandate by an iron-handed policy in the enforcement of all laws.

"A year ago the Eighty-third General Assembly enacted House Bill No. 620, commonly called the Crabbe act, designed to prohibit the liquor traffic and to provide for the administration and enforcement of such prohibition. This measure was submitted to a referendum of the voters last November, was approved by the voters and is now the law.

"This measure leaves the matter of enforcement entirely to of the party. He passed up earlier officials in the various communities. I am forced to the coneffective results are not to be obtained under the law as it now stands. It is certain to lead to a kind of enforcement that will guide us over Canada. During vary in degree and effectiveness in different localities.

"With the will of the public with reference to the traffic expressed at the polls, the state government now is looked to for its abolishment. Every possibility of laxity in the liquor law enforcement, whether state-wide or locally, must be eliminated.

"The accomplishment of this result lies in uniformly strict a gale. We were in the clouds travelapplication of the Crabbe act in every section. Such uniformity ling westward when we finally landof policy and practice, I believe, can be assured only by placing the task of enforcement directly into the hands of state authorities, through the formation of a state prohibition enforcement staff. Such a working force, co-operating with local and Federal this time authorities in details, at once will assure a systematic carrying out of the provisions of the Crabbe act the length and breadth of the state and give to the executive department of the government, bearing the responsibility of enforcement, a direct and their eyes is the real hero. It was a definite means with which to discharge it.

"I, therefore, urgently recommend that legislation be enacted providing for the establishment, as a part of the administrative machinery of the state government, of a prohibition enforcement bureau, coupled with a staff charged with the duty of carrying out the provisions of the Crabbe act."

HELPING THE CHILD.

In his address before the Child Conservation League at Marion, Mr. Harding again made it clear that he means to do all that a President can to make this country a good place for a child to grow up in. In his fine, earnest words at Haverford, Mr. Hoover at the same hour was showing us how intimately inter- the Hudson Bay company. linked is the child welrare of Europe with our own problem. The future of the world is the future of its children. If we fail to feed their bodies and their souls with the right sort of food, the body politic and the corporate spirit of a nation will suffer.

Mr. Harding has no "new-patent" panaceas to propose. He does not think the earth is presently going to turn to cinders or a shriveled scroll; he does not think the epitaph of humanity is written and that in a vale of tears the thing for us to do is to don not to talk to the newspapermen. a shroud and bewail our sin. He does not howl like a winter wind Farrell. of doom and disaster impending. Instead, he reminds us of a few plain, homely truths it is well we should remember. He tells Hinton. us that it is a wholesome thing for children to listen when a mother speaks and learn to live at home in dutifulness and affection, and to be democrats on the playground and in the classes of the public school. He expresses again the ardent hope he entertains that rell leaping from his chair and squarthe public welfare department he proposes may have much to do in helping the dreams of an ideal democracy come true.

While Mr. Harding is no prophet of gloom and cataclysm, he is right in affirming that it is an age of widespread doubt and mistrust, in which we need more than ever to hold fast to the eternal verities. The influences of the hearthside and the church of which he speaks may, in the eyes of a sham aristocracy, appear to be hopelessly "middle-class;" but such a view merely betrays the flippant foolishness of those who hold it. The salt of the earth is in the ordered, temperate lives of the millions of people who know that it is "altogether wise and best" to be decent, homeloving, law-abiding and God-fearing.-Exchange.

The aggressive, square jawed Farrell showed the least excitement over the adventure. After he had knocked Hinton down with a smashing right to the jaw, and had cooled off he talked with the correspondents.

The only purpose of the flight was make an experimental hop," said "The flight was duly authorized. We expected to land the following morning and did not take much food. All we had was about eight or ten sandwiches and two thermos bottles full of hot coffee. We took along bags for our uniforms and wore our ordinary flying clothes. We did not have any drinking water with us, but in the cold and moisture of the sky we did not get very thirsty.

"Kloor wanted to make a long flight. Although I was the senior officer in the party he was in charge opportunities to land and we kept on going until we has traversed all of New York state and the Canadian province of Ontario. We only had a Quebec Central railway map to night on December 13, it started to rain and the wind blew a gale. Then it grew very cold. It was Hinton's first balloon flight but he got along all right. Kloor was enthusiastic over the speed we were making and it is no wonder we were going fast for we were travelling in the teeth of ed on the shore of James Bay. The sun was shining but it was bitter cold and everythnig was covered with snow and ice. I guess the rest of our adventure is pretty well known by Kloor was the first to arrive. He whirled into town along the Missinabi trail on a dog sled and was greeted with cheers mingled with the yelps of numerous packs of dogs. Hinton came next and Farrell last.

"I feel fine but I want to get at a fire," said Kloor. He went into the railway station and afterwards went to the private car of W. T. Way, superintendent of the Canadian National railway. HARD TO FIGURE.

I know not why I always think a new year will be fine, and feel it will not put a kink in glowing plans of mine; or why a year seems on the blink when 'tis in its decline. "I've muddled things this year," I say, when I regard the past; "I've let my kopecks fly away like leaves upon the blast, but doubtless after New Year's Day improvement will be vast. The new year brings a change of luck to every human freak; my bank account the old year struck, and made my coffers leak, but now I'll save a silver buck, and maybe two, each week." The new year has a magic touch, or so, methinks, it seems; she is a vampire and as such she brings us hophead dreams, and ere she dies we get in Dutch, with all our burnished schemes. I know I simply can't be wise, my deeds are all mistakes, I travel with the bonehead guys whose high resolves are fakes; how then shall I to wisdom rise because a new year breaks? In folly I've grown old and gray, and in my Moated Grange I count great chances thrown away, and it is passing strange that I exclaim on New Year's Day, "Now things will take

Paris, Jan. - In outlining his political program recently Premier Georges Leygues held that in future he hoped to make way in various important commissions for women. He took example of the millions of women in America who it is generally believed in French political circles were scuh a strong factor in bringing about the election of Warren Harding, the Republican candidate. But for the time being Leygues does not say he will suggest that Frenchwomen be given the right to vote in French elections, and here he has the majority of Frenchmen, excepting politicians against him.

One of the most fervent supporters of femlnism in France is Leon Bailby, editor of an influential evening newspaper, L'Intransigeant. M. Bailby, in a leading article, says women will be refused the vote in France because their men friends and relatives are afraid of their "better halves." While he rejoites at the proposed appointment of women to sit on food and hygienic commissions he regrets that no one is bold enough to offer them seats in Parliament or even give them the right to choose their representatives. On the commissions, Bailby says, the women will have little chance of making their impressions and opinions felt. In Parliament, he sway the votes of their men colleagues by simply telling them a few with Mr and Mrs. Stacey.

Suet pudding is a hearly dessert

Suet pudding is a hearty dessert and is best to serve in cold weather. Often the butcher will include a piece of suet in with a roast for the asking. This may be put through the food grinder and flour rubbed into it and then put in a can. It will keep a long time in cold weather. No shortening or eggs are required, so the pudding is inexpensive and delicious.
